

Paynter` System of Poultry Rearing : Or a Year from Hens (Classic Reprint)

F G Paynter

Excerpt from Paynters System of Poultry Rearing: Or a Year From Hens I read through every new book on Poultry which I happen to see, and have come to the conclusion that they are as a rule much too long, and all that the public wish to be told is, in as few words and as clearly as possible, how to make eggs and table poultry pay by well-ried simple systems of feeding and general management. Poultry - keepers may be divided up into the following groups: 1. The backyarder with perhaps from 6 to 12 birds, and who has no grass land. 2. The cottager who keeps from 12 birds upwards, and who probably has access to some grass land, either in his backyard, around his house, or by the roadside. 3. The well-to-do person who keeps a few fowls to supply eggs and table birds for his own home consumption, and which are probably looked after by some member of his family, or by his groom or gardener.
