Unknown Author

Excerpt from Peace, the Illumination of Niagara Falls Twenty-one 15-inch and fifteen 30-inch searchlights set in batteries which were scattered along the gorge and cliffs above on the Canadian side converged their rays first on the American Falls and then on the Horseshoe Falls. At first the light was white, but gradually turned to a roseate tint, then green, yellow and blue, until the foaming waters glittered with all the soft rays of the rainbow. So well were the lights managed, that under them the natural beauty of the Falls did not suffer but was enhanced. Occasionally all the lights were turned upwards. Their rays forming a great colored fan, visible on a clear night for one hundred miles. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
