

Peace Sign : One Boomer` Struggle for Peace in the Future

Vivian Crosby

Susans life was like a song from the sixties, a blend of blues, jazz and gospel. Peace Sign is the story of Susan, an active and lively member of the boomer generation, who wants to stay young forever. This hometown girl goes to her 50th high school reunion recently widowed and looking for romance. She is shocked to see the changes in her classmates and begins to realize there is no fountain of youth. Soon after her reunion, she meets Bill, the man of her dreams and life is wonderful. She feels like a twenty-something girl again until she discovers her heart is failing. Eventually, as her heart grows weaker, she is forced to go to the Resort, a senior care facility of the future. At the Resort, Susan discovers that for her generation there is no age like old age with hippie parties and nano-technology. As she navigates her senior journey with a rock and roll attitude, she learns a few new facts of life. She discovers this change in life is about more than a bucket list. Its a passage with spiritual significance. As her sixtieth high school reunion approaches, she realizes a sense of peace that has eluded her and her generation for so long.
